The Grand Inauguration of Spectra 2026 at LPU

New Age Journalism Summit 2026 Concludes Successfully at LPU

Lovely Professional University successfully hosted the New Age Journalism Summit 2026 | News Beyond Newsrooms – The Rise of Decentralized Journalism on 23rd February.

The summit featured insightful sessions by speakers including Abhinav Pandey, Mukul Singh, Tarun Kedia, and Nitin Soni, who discussed how decentralized journalism and digital platforms are transforming the way news is created and shared.

IECON '26 Set to Energize LPU with Innovation and Entertainment

Lovely Professional University is set to host IECON '26, bringing together innovators, entrepreneurs, creators, and performers for an inspiring celebration of ideas and impact.

The event will feature engaging conversations with visionary founders and industry leaders, along with a special keynote by Prachi Tehlan, highlighting journeys that are shaping the future of entrepreneurship.

IECON '26 will also include insightful sessions from dynamic founders and a vibrant live concert featuring Punjabi singer Gurnam Bhullar and actor Isha Malviya, making it a unique blend of innovation, inspiration, and entertainment.

Lovely Professional University proudly commenced Spectra 2026, marking the beginning of an electrifying celebration of youth talent, creativity, and cultural brilliance. The grand inauguration ceremony was graced by Dr. Ashok Kumar Mittal, Member of Parliament (Rajya Sabha) and Founder Chancellor of LPU, along with Ms. Rashmi Mittal, Pro Chancellor of LPU, whose presence added inspiration and prestige to the occasion.

Organised by the Division of Art and Culture under the Student Welfare Wing of LPU, the opening ceremony brought together students from diverse disciplines, creating an atmosphere filled with excitement, passion, and artistic expression. The event featured mesmerizing performances and vibrant cultural showcases that set the tone for the dynamic festival ahead.

Spectra 2026 celebrates the spirit of youth through a wide range of artistic and intellectual platforms. The festival features 7 major events and more than 30 categories, including music, dance, theatre, fine arts, fashion, social media, and literary competitions. Students from 25 schools across the university are participating, with over 2000 talented individuals showcasing their creativity and skills, all competing for the prestigious Champions Trophy.

A special highlight of this year's edition is the EDREV Conclave, which hosts the Grand EDUREV Youth Parliament, along with engaging quizzes, debates, exhibitions, and insightful side-fire chats. These activities aim to encourage critical thinking, dialogue, and innovative ideas among young minds, creating a platform where education meets inspiration and leadership.

LPU Innovators Represent India at the Global AI Impact Summit

In a remarkable display of academic excellence and global engagement, students from Lovely Professional University (LPU) proudly marked their presence at the prestigious India AI Impact Summit—a global confluence of visionary ideas, technological advancements, and transformative dialogue on Artificial Intelligence.

The summit brought together some of the world's most influential leaders and innovators, including Hon'ble Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Sundar Pichai, and Emmanuel Macron. Their collective insights offered a powerful perspective on the evolving role of AI in shaping economies, governance, and global society. As Artificial Intelligence continues to redefine the world, LPU Innovators stand inspired and equipped—ready to be a part of the change, shaping a smarter, more connected future.

LPU unveiled 16 Breakthrough AI Innovations at India AI Impact Summit 2026

EARLY TIMES REPORT

JALANDHAR, Feb 17: Newly launched by the University (LPU) participated in the India-AI Impact Summit 2026 in New Delhi inaugurated by Prime Minister (Shri Narendra Modi). LPU presented its AI driven projects developed by its students and research teams, focusing on practical applications across sectors such as education, agriculture, robotics, enterprise technology, accessibility, and health.

The summit brought together policymakers, industry leaders, researchers, startups, and academic institutions to discuss the role of Artificial Intelligence in economic development, sustainability, and the future of work. LPU's participation reflected its focus on student-led research and applied AI innovation.

The university students exhibited projects spanning healthcare design, enterprise platforms, digital collaboration, and assistive technologies. These included TheApplicable, a browser-based electronic development platform; Genoma AI, an AI model building environment supporting co-ops and AI pro code workflow; Brainet, an AI enabled business management solution integrating finance and analytics; and Macbase, a digital platform designed to support academic collaboration and student communities. Several projects addressed accessibility, health, and well-being. MateAI is designed as a digital companion for mental wellbeing support across individual and organisational settings. EduBraille combines tactile hardware and specialised learning to support Braille literacy among visually impaired learners. FemerAI, an AI based menstrual and wellness platform, integrate cycle tracking with personalised health insights and safety features to support women's health awareness and self care.

Agriculture focused solutions included Dr. Kisan, an AI based agribot for crop disease detection and targeted pesticide use; AgriHarvest, an autonomous drone system for precision spraying; and Eri-Shika AI, a voice enabled advisory platform providing field assistance and localised farm guidance. In robotics and advanced mobility, A.D.R., an autonomous underwater robotic assistant, demonstrated applications in inspection and navigation, while VRIITHA, an AI enabled VTOL UAV platform, presented use cases in disaster response, map-making, surveillance, and logistics. SahasAI, an off-line capable AI learning assistant, was also showcased as a tool to support personalised learning in low-connectivity classrooms.

Dr. Ashok Kumar Mittal, Member of Parliament (Rajya Sabha) and Founder Chancellor of LPU, and Artificial Intelligence should contribute not only to economic growth but also to equity and sustainability. Platforms such as the India AI Impact Summit enable collaboration and global exposure for researchers and student innovators. "With over 250 incubated startups and more than 2,500 patents granted, LPU has built a growing ecosystem for research and innovation. Through participation in national and international innovation events, LPU continues to engage with academic, industry, and government stakeholders working on AI enabled solutions across sectors.

NEW DELHI, February 11
Even as the Galgotias roadblock controversy dominated headlines at the India AI Impact Summit, the wider exhibition Pure Tech II is different story of indigenous engineering, applied AI and green tech in India's vision steadily shaping India's technology narrative.

Leading the defence and deep space segment was Lowly Professional University (LPU), which showcased a suite of in-house developed, though largely assembled, unmanned systems built for military, infrastructure and agriculture applications.

Manish Singh, Assistant Dean at LPU, said the university was hard been working with the Army to develop mission-specific drone platforms. "We have collaborated closely with the Army to build drones suited to operational requirements, including during Operation Sankat-7e said.

Among its key platform was VTOL-THRUSTAR AI-enabled hybrid unmanned aerial vehicle coming vertical lift with fixed-wing engine with surveillance, disaster response and high-intelligence. Another system, Ardent Harvest, deploys AI-driven aerial drone to detect crop diseases and enable precision spraying.

Beyond these, deep space stationing depicts three strong attributes. Hydrosat-based iSpecies AI showcased first-of-its-kind robotics platform aimed at building green purpose machine intelligence. CEO Srivasthi Vaidyanathan said the firm is focused on replicating core human capabilities such as manipulation, locomotion and navigation.

"I wouldn't call it 100 per cent India-made, because artificial components are imported. But the design, electronics and AI manager Ayaz outlined an AI-first, higher-education model blending curriculum with hands-on technology development. Partner institutes run dual-track learning, formalises degrees alongside lab-based robotics and AI training.

Creators of STOPS innovation was also equally viable. AI-enabled-based Stempedia presented modular robotics lab-based learning modules in assembly, code and operate functional robots. Representative Pragy Karan said the platform took mechanical systems, calibration and programming through hands-on lab. "Students assemble and code robots themselves—that's how they understand motors, mechanisms and automation," he said.

Collectively, these exhibits underscored a broader shift at the summit, from spectacle to substance.

India's AI Moment: LPU at the Forefront of Innovation

India is witnessing a transformative moment in the field of Artificial Intelligence, as institutions, innovators, and policymakers come together to shape a technology-driven future. At the heart of this movement is Lovely Professional University (LPU), which continues to position itself as a hub for innovation, research, and responsible AI development.

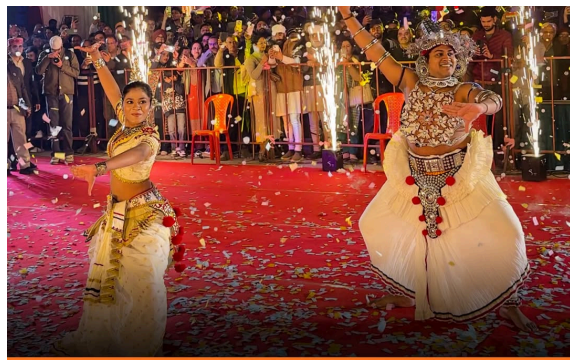

The prestigious AI Impact Summit 2026 became a powerful platform highlighting the role of education and research in advancing artificial intelligence. The summit was proudly attended by Hon'ble Chancellor and Member of Parliament (Rajya Sabha) Dr. Ashok Kumar Mittal and Pro Chancellor Col. Dr. Rashmi Mittal, whose presence underscored LPU's strong commitment to technological leadership and innovation.

During the summit, both leaders engaged in meaningful interactions with global technology experts, innovators, and thought leaders from across the world. Their discussions focused on the future of artificial intelligence, emerging technological ecosystems, and the importance of building AI systems that serve humanity responsibly.

A particularly proud moment for the university came when they applauded the remarkable achievements of LPU students, who showcased cutting-edge AI projects addressing real-world challenges. From intelligent automation systems to socially impactful AI solutions, these innovations reflected the university's strong emphasis on practical research and interdisciplinary collaboration.

INTERNATIONAL CULTURAL PARADE 2026: CELEBRATING UNITY IN DIVERSITY IN MANDI

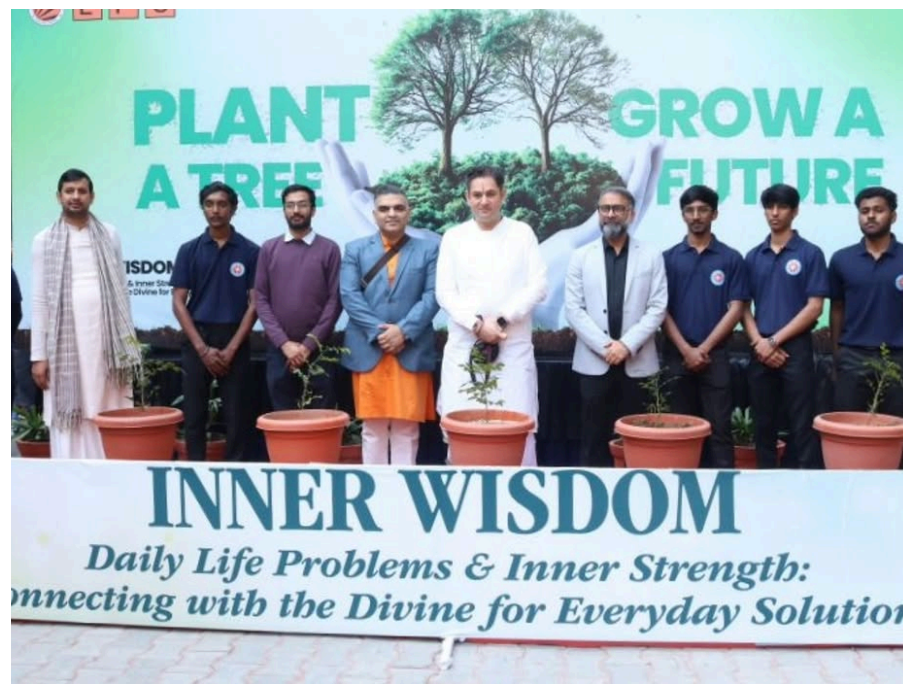

The International Cultural Parade 2026 in Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, stood as a vibrant celebration of unity, diversity, and global friendship. Set against the scenic beauty of the Himalayan hills, the event brought together international students from across the world to share their cultures, traditions, and artistic expressions on one grand stage.

Students from Africa, the USA, Sri Lanka, Nepal, and several other nations proudly represented their countries, creating a colourful and energetic atmosphere filled with cultural pride and enthusiasm. Through lively performances, traditional attire, and engaging cultural displays, participants showcased the rich heritage and unique traditions of their homelands.

The parade highlighted the powerful message of “unity in diversity,” where different cultures blended together in harmony, celebrating the spirit of global connection and mutual respect. The audience witnessed an inspiring display of music, dance, and cultural storytelling that reflected the beauty of cultural exchange.

Discovering Inner Wisdom: Inspiring Spiritual Session at LPU

Lovely Professional University hosted an enlightening session titled “Inner Wisdom,” featuring the revered Shri Pundrik Goswami Maharaj Ji, offering students a meaningful opportunity to reflect on life, spirituality, and personal growth. The session inspired students to explore inner strength, mindfulness, and spiritual balance in their everyday lives.

Centered around the theme “Daily Life Problems & Inner Strength: Connecting with the Divine for Everyday Solutions,” the discourse provided profound insights into managing life’s challenges through self-awareness, resilience, and spiritual understanding. Shri Pundrik Goswami Maharaj Ji shared thoughtful perspectives on how connecting with one’s inner self and the divine can guide individuals toward clarity, peace, and purpose in modern life.

The event was supported by the student organization Griffin, under the aegis of the Division of Youth Affairs, Student Welfare Wing, Lovely Professional University. The initiative aimed to encourage holistic development among students by nurturing not only academic excellence but also emotional and spiritual well-being.

The session proved to be a truly inspiring and reflective experience, encouraging participants to cultivate mindfulness, deepen their self-awareness, and strengthen their connection with inner wisdom.

Dear Readers,

EDITOR'S NOTE

This February

As we step into a brand-new year, January brings with it a quiet sense of renewal, reflection, and fresh beginnings. The first month of the year is not just about turning a calendar page — it is about turning intentions into action, dreams into plans, and challenges into opportunities.

A new year also encourages us to embrace balance — to work hard, stay curious, nurture friendships, and prioritize well-being. Success is not only measured in results but in the courage to try, to learn, and to grow.

As Editor, I invite each reader to use this year as a canvas — paint it boldly with ambition, compassion, and integrity. Let this January be the foundation of a year filled with purpose and progress.
